	Our City has struggled to house and care for those afflicted by the housing crisis and mental health issues for decades. Temporarily washing our hands of the situation by shackling our tenants and housing providers with an additional $960 million in debt obligations, according to the Controller's Office's estimate, in exchange for $487 million in the near term is not a solution—it's a poorly-applied band-aid on a festering wound. Solving this crisis requires creative, out-of-the box thinking from more than just tax-funded politicians and bureaucrats. Our community deserves the opportunity to rise to the occasion, as it has done many times before. That opportunity will only come when the City lifts its excessive restrictions on building housing and operating small businesses which provide for the many needs of our most vulnerable community members. We, as voters, should demand no less. Vote NO on Prop A and send a strong message that voters will not tolerate more of the same failed policies. Libertarian Party of San Francisco www.LPSF.org
