	Hollow promises to sabotage more affordable homes for San Franciscans Supervisors Chan and Peskin, the architects of Measure E, ought to have named their measure the Affordable Housing Prevention Act. They crafted Measure E to retain their power to deny or fatally delay housing projects that meet San Francisco zoning and development standards. San Francisco has already rendered the construction of thousands of approved homes infeasible through red tape, fees, and mandates. Prop E erects additional impractical hurdles. For example, Prop E requires contractors to apply exclusionary workforce criteria to mixed-income housing projects. Fewer than 1 in 10 California residential construction workers qualify to work under Prop E prerequisites. State streamlining laws that contain this requirement for mixed-income housing have been in effect for nearly 5 years, and not one new home has been built. To build more Affordable Homes Now, vote No on E. Nor Cal Carpenters Union

	Proposition E will Endanger Housing Prop E claims to build housing, but in fact does the opposite. It will not streamline 100% affordable housing and will continue to leave affordable housing vulnerable to costly litigation. Prop E was put on the ballot to block efforts to speed up housing production. This measure will maintain barriers to housing and perpetuate the housing crisis. Prop E is a dishonest attempt by the anti-housing Supervisors to confuse voters. The housing shortage is driving people into poverty and out of our city, so housing activists and Mayor Breed spearheaded Prop D to build badly-needed affordable housing. In response, Prop E was put on the ballot with the explicit goal to maintain the status quo and block permit streamlining. Prop E requires extra hearings for affordable housing dollars spent by the City, which will invite NIMBYs to delay low-income housing projects with endless hearings and lawsuits, driving up costs. Prop E requires builders to jump through so many hoops, no housing will actually get built. San Francisco has the highest construction costs in the world, and Prop E will ratchet those costs up even further, resulting in no new homes—especially new affordable housing for families. Prop E sounds good but will accomplish nothing. San Franciscans want to build an inclusive city where people from all walks of life can find belonging. We need real solutions that will actually build more housing. Prop E tries to confuse voters in an effort to reinforce the status quo. San Franciscans who want more housing have an easy choice: Vote for Prop D, the pro-housing bill—and vote against Prop E. YIMBY Action
